Seeds aplenty??

Vale of Clwyd Mind Allotment Project manages plots in Ruthin and St Asaph, aiming to provide an environment where local people can maintain or regain good mental health. They are currently looking for donations of unwanted gardening tools, packets of seeds or bird boxes. Please speak to Chris Richards, a volunteer with the project, or Helen and John Wellings, for more information. Thanks.

Food Safety: Provision, handling and Hospitality: As a church, we provide food and drinks for a number of occasions at different risk levels. Alison Bennett, Allyson Wynn and Gwyneth Wright are currently preparing a food safety policy for the church, which aims to be workable and compliant with current legislation and recommended practices. This time of transition is never easy, particularly when our systems already work well. However, we have been advised to do this and want to follow sensible procedures. Please be patient and understanding as small changes will need to be made, and this is a learning curve for us all. But we stress that our aim is to have a simple, workable policy that satisfies all parties concerned. For those of you who work in the kitchen your continued support is much appreciated.

Ironing Station: Tina Hanson has a twice used ironing station to give away. Please speak to her if you are interested in having it.

Teams! During May and June, we hope to talk about teams in church life. We would like to see more of our activities and ministries run as teams to give as many people as possible opportunity to be involved. We'll mention this in some of our Sunday morning sermons as well as talk about what we hope teams will look like in the church and how people can be part of them.

Joint Service & Fellowship Tea: Today @ 4-6pm we'll be meeting for a joint service and tea with 3 other, local FIEC churches - Grace Church Denbigh, Gwersyllt Congregational and Bradley Road Baptist. In the service we'll be talking about setting up a new church planting initiative called Reach North Wales. A children's program will run during the service. The service will be followed by a fellowship tea. This will all be instead of our usual 6pm evening service.

Marion Harvey is giving Paul's books away. If you are interested, Marion would be pleased to show you his collection. Thanks!
